Kevin McDonald, No. Jersey Striders, 2:33:14. The weather was perfect for marathon running, though not for spectators. It rained steadily, the temperature was in the high 50's, and the sun never shone. (Ed. "Full results not received as we go to the printers.")

Wayne, winning his first major-distance event, said, "I'm used to racing over wet tracks like this. In Oregon, it rains six months out of the year." He was an eighth place finisher in the Boston Marathon. He kept close to the pace through most of the race, never worse than fourth in the latter stages.

The Wrong Time to Jog

Ron Wayne was beating John Vitale was bitter. The 29th Yonkers Marathon at Yonkers Raceway yesterday had just ended in a new state and seemed over—and in confusion.

Wayne was the winner. Vitale should have been.

"It's just not fair. There's no way this should have happened," Vitale said after losing by six feet after leading for 23 miles. "Someone standing at the gate leading into the track said there was one lap to go. One lap to go means one lap to go. I was just jogging. I wasn't concerned when the other guy (Wayne) went by me. I figured there was still plenty of time."

There wasn't.

According to a race official, Vitale heard something he shouldn't have heard. Ben Mallesian, the marshal at the clubhouse gate, said that Vitale was following instructions issued for a trailing runner who Vitale had lapped. Although they both left the winding streets of Yonkers and entered the gate on the clubhouse back together, Vitale was a full lap ahead.

Thus, according to Mallesian, one official told Vitale that the finish line was just another lap to go. Does anyone else hear?

"I don't even like a very good system at work here. I wouldn't mind if I got beat," the disheartened loser said. "But I was racing as easy. I'm not out of breath now. am I? Do you think that was the best I could do at the finish? You want to see a closing kick? I'll show you one. I should have won this race."

When Vitale, a 29-year-old Connecticut schoolteacher-to-be-jogged to the wire before being down for the lap that never came, Wayne was frantically closing the 30 yards that separated him and the leader. For him, there was no mistaking the finish.

"I didn't know if he (Vitale) was lying or what, but I just kept going," Wayne, a 24-year-old University of Oregon graduate student, said. "I was kind of surprised that he wasn't showing much kick."

The cool, damp weather was perfect for long-distance running and the Marathon went in record time. Wayne, finishing one second ahead of Vitale, was clocked in 2 hours, 18 minutes and 52.8 seconds over a sloppy track and slippery sidewalks. The previous mark, set by John J. Kelley in 1960, was 2:23:11.

The Yonkers Marathon this year was also designated as the National A.A.U. and Metropolitan Championship test.

Nina Kozick, continued her superiority in the women's division for the third straight year by finishing first and 94th overall. For the first time, however, she failed to break the three minute mark, by only 1.6 seconds.

JUSTIN GUBBINS, of the Millrose Athletic Club, took the Metropolitan individual title with a time of 2:20:26, his 19th place overall.

In the 50 and over Masters category, Pat Bostick pulled in at 2:24:40 to beat Joe Burns by only nine seconds.

The Washington Sports Club capped the team title.

"When they're finished, you never see a more miserable bunch of people in your life," said Dr. Irving Cahn, who was on hand for emergency duty.

Perhaps the most bizarre part of the course was the rocky downhill trail around the Millview Reservoir. Although the marathon coordinator, Ben Goldberg (who also is the track's security chief), went over it with a push broom yesterday, the rain pushed large rocks over the course. Several runners sprained their ankles.

John Vitale is a dismayed second as Ron Wayne wins.

Number and Grabs a New One: No. 1 in Marathon

Dave Patterson had never run more than nine miles at any time in his life before Tuesday.

That's when he led 223 other contestants of suffering to the Art Museum finish line in the second annual Philadelphia Marathon, the official opening event in the Penn Relays.

He was timed in 2:31.2, almost a full minute behind Karl Thorson's winning time last year.

It was the first time the former West Chester State runner, who holds the school record in the three-mile, had ever negotiated the 26-mile, 385-yard marathon distance. And he admitted he had no clear idea how to approach the thing.

"The pace was pretty slow," he admitted, "and I kept hanging back to run with someone who knew how to run it. Finally, the second time around the museum, I took the lead."

"The last eight miles," he continued, "were very hard. I was just hoping to God I'd finish."

Patterson was really a mystery man in the event. He lost both his identifying numbers pinned to his chest and back. And, while he is a member of the Philadelphia Flyers Track Club, he ran unattached because, he claims, the club never contacted him before the event.

"I lost the back number out at the Falls Bridge," he said, "and then the driver came around two. I was trying to pin it on so I ran. I kept thinking they would know who I was, you know. Weird things start going through your mind in a marathon."

Second place went to Curt Allen, a postgraduate student at the Hill School who's bound for West Point in the fall. He clocked 2:34.6 over the flat course which splits through three separate trips from the Art Museum to the Falls Bridge and back.

That was better than the 2:38 he ran eight days ago in the Boston Marathon where he finished 14th out of more than 1,700 entrants. The Philadelphia Marathon was his third ever all.

"My finish here surprised me," he admitted. "I was just trying to keep to a six-minute mile pace. It started getting pretty warm, but then a breeze came up to cool me off. Really, just finishing at all in a marathon is all right."

West Chester Graduate Student Complete Surprise in Marathon

By BOB SAVETT
Of The Bulletin Sports Staff

Some days, you lay out of bed and feel absolutely unexcited.

Never mind the wind, the rain, the lack of an early track. Courage is in your heart.

It was a big secret yesterday that Dave Patterson was going to run a marathon.

He kept it from his friends, his family. He kept it from himself — for so long that he didn't apply to enter. His presence in the 26-mile, 385-yard race along the East River Drive came as a total surprise to Penn Relays officials.

"Nobody knew," the 22-year-old West Chester State graduate student was saying. "I didn't tell anybody, except the two guys who drove me down here. It was a spot of the weekend trip."

No. 1 in Your Heart

Two hours, 32 minutes, and three seconds later, Dave Patterson was out receiving applause. But he was explaining that he, 223 in your program was not Peter Dinklage.

"It's a friend of a friend... well, a friend of a friend I met down here," said Patterson, explaining how he learned that Thorson, who had paid to enter, wasn't appearing. The event used his entry number. For a final part-time runner, he was worried that it would cut him off from the prize. "They laid away Jim Thorpe's medals, didn't they," he declared.

Some would call it gas-grating — but no one would call it an unfair advantage. See You Later Patterson, who started distance running as an Altoona High sophomore, eight years ago, had never raced longer than eight miles and was looking forward to "a good one," say, three hours.

His friends guessed longer. Try, 34.

"See you tomorrow, some time," kidded West Chester trackman Glenn Norman after dropping Patterson at breakfast. Two hours and one class later, Norman returned — to find that his pal was the winner.

"There's no reason that he should have won," Norman exclaimed. "All his workouts have been fast track workouts — not the kind of training you do for a marathon. He must have done it on natural ability."

Go, son — and looney. Not knowing correct pace, he lagged along early with George Christopher, a Penn State guy from Radner who was second a year ago. At the 10-mile mark, Patterson was strong enough to strike out on his own.

Allen led

"I thought I was never going to win," he said. "The last eight miles — suddenly, it got very hard. I kept thinking, 'I've got the lead, I've got to hold it.'"

He was by almost two minutes when Ed Strick postgraduated Curt Allen, missing Karl Thorson's course record by a mere 36 seconds.

"I never won anything big before in my life," said the joyful athlete. "I ran on West Chester's cross-country team. "I was never good at West Chester because I didn't like to run 800," he explained. "This course here is so flat it's boring. You go nuts. But it's my type of course."

Eileen Diskin Discovers 2 Marathons Are Enough

By BOB SAVETT
Of The Bulletin Sports Staff

It is so fun to be able to eat to your breakfast, "Dave," we met somewhere before?"

Eileen Diskin knows the feeling.

"I threw up three times during the Boston Marathon," the Cherry Hill third-grade teacher was saying yesterday.

It didn't stop her from finishing that 26-mile, 385-yard race at Penn Relays yesterday to complete the Penn Relays version in three hours, 41 minutes, and 13 seconds.

"I think it's too much," the first woman holder (5th overall) said. "It's too much to run two marathons back-to-back."

Maybe because she went out and jogged 25 miles last Thursday, 25 more Friday, and 25 more Saturday.

"Had to get back in shape,"

she explained.

The 27-year-old, not very big of build, was headed a bouquet of roses after she completed the Fairmount Park Course for the second time in two years. The roses were originally intended for Patricia Ali, who didn't quite make it.

"My husband made me quit," she explained, her pride story. "I knew it would happen if he came. I didn't want him to cheer up. Everybody hurts after two (back-to-back) loops. He kept saying how the last time I tried, I kept going when I shouldn't have and couldn't run for another two, three miles... I could have made it."

Marathons are already old hat for Mrs. Diskin, who is setting her sights higher.

"I'd like to run a 50-mile one of these days," she claimed.

100-MILE RELAY TEAM CLADMS WORLD RECORD

West Long Branch, N.J., March 25- A battered wooden relay baton went on a 300-mile trip in world record time today.

The baton was carried by 100 milers competing in the third annual 100-mile relay sponsored by the Shore Athletic Club as they circled the Monmouth College Klatsaturof track 400 times from 8:45 a.m. to 4:31 p.m.

The 400 laps took a total of eight hours, six minutes & 14.8 seconds, a world best. The previous best was 8:08:02 set last June by a U.S. Naval Academy team. Navy, in turn, had bettered the performance of 8:09:42 in the 1973 Shore AC 100-miler.

Teams from New Zealand and Sweden had held the world mark before Shore AC brought it to the U.S. in 1972. Harry Nolan's 4:17.2 on the 38th mile was the fastest of the day. Monmouth Regional's Odie Hoffman hit 4:39.1, best of the day for a schoolboy, on No. 98. Slowest of the 100 milers was George Gloede of Fair Lawn at 5:46--but he had a ready excuse. "That was the first mile of my career--and besides I'm really a high jumper."

A 'B' team went 40 miles concurrently.

MET. AAU 15 KILO JR. & SR. CHAMPIONSHIPS-OPEN
Sunday, April 7, 1974 2:00 P.M., Scarsdale, N.Y.

Mike Keogh, a fleet-footed, almost tireless, 22-year-old distance runner from Manhattan College, romped to an impressive, half-minute victory when the 9th edition of the Metropolitan AAU 15km championship road run was contested on suburban streets of Scarsdale.

The bearded, Irish-born athlete made a virtual wire-to-wire triumph in the 9.3 miles test, in clocking 47:24.

Keogh poured on the coals almost as soon as the race began on the campus of Scarsdale H.S., pushing the Scarsdale Police Dept. pace car briskly through the streets of the Greenaces and Fox Meadow sectors. The brisk, sunlit weather attracted a field of some 300 runners, and Keogh had a lead of about 150y on his closest rival 18-year-old Paul Heck of the Columbia University team, when the field ran its figure-eight pattern past the high school's Butler Field midpoint station.

Breaking the tape at the race's conclusion, Keogh, breathing easily, still held a lead of exactly 30s on the dogged young Heck, who had an even wider advantage over Frank Handelman of the Central Park TC, 30 years Heck's senior, who was timed in 49:18.

The team title fell to Columbia, which placed two other runners in the top seven.

The race was sponsored by the Scarsdale National Bank & Trust Company & the Scarsdale Dept. of Recreation & Parks.

DOREEN ENNIS CAPTURES THIRD ANNUAL RRC-N.Y. ASSN. - MINI-MARATHON (6-MILES)

Central Park, NYC, Saturday, May 11, 1974 - Waffles and honey beat out spaghetti and butter as a training food by a slight margin today as Doreen Ennis, representing the Nutley (N.J.) TC, won the third annual mini-marathon in Central Park, setting a course record of 36:45.6.

Miss Ennis, a 17-year-old senior at Nutley H.S., who had the waffles, put on a closing kick in the last 200y to pass and defeat Cathy Greene, 15, of Valley Stream H.S., by 3 seconds. Miss Greene represented the Long Island Golden Spikes.

The two young women were among 157 starters and 152 finishers in this largest race for women. It was held over the 6-mile 50-yard course around Central Park's empty roadway.

The race was originally known as the Crazylegs Marathon before Elroy Hirsch, the famous ex-football player whose nickname was Crazylegs, voiced objections.

The youngest runner was 10-year-old Christina Kuscsik, whose mother, Nina, is famous for leading the crusade to have women included in marathons.

Nina, doubling as meet director, finished third for the third straight year but bettered her previous time by 17s. Little Christina finished 85th in 49:38.

Miss Ennis, who has competed against Soviet athletes, trimmed 3.1s off the course mark set last year by 15-year-old Kathy Shrader of Middletown, N.Y.

Miss Greene, the second place finisher trains on spaghetti and butter for the carbohydrate value.

THE JIM THORPE MEMORIAL RUN

The television set is tuned to the movie of the week. Relaxing in comfort, the family watches a western depicting Custer's last stand. If asked later, members of the family would probably correctly identify the Indian leaders as Sitting Bull or Crazy Horse. The names of Geronimo and many others have become well known because they have been given a great deal of exposure in many media. It is surprising, however, that an Indian of the not so distant past is not as well recognized by name or deeds.

Jim (James Frances) Thorpe, born in Oklahoma on May 28, 1888, became one of the greatest sports figures of all time. While attending Carlisle Indian School in Pennsylvania he became a national football sensation during the 1908 season. His unique athletic ability led him to the 1912 Olympics held in Stockholm, Sweden. Unfortunately, the medals which he won in capturing both the pentathlon and decathlon titles were revoked and his amateur status renounced.

For some years after, he played professional baseball with the New York Giants. Then in 1920 he once again participated in football as a professional. In 1929 his performances started to slip. He tried acting in Hollywood. When World War II broke out he served as a merchant marine. During the post war years he suffered two heart attacks, and died on May 28, 1953 in Lomita, California.

Jim had married three times during his life. Historians say his career started slipping when one of his sons (James Frances, Jr.) died of Infantile Paralysis. Doctors at that time could do little for such conditions. Today medicine has made great advances against these crippling illnesses. The Easter Seal Society is one of many organizations which help those afflicted with abnormalities.

In 1972, the first "Run for Those Who Can't" was held for the benefit of the local Easter Seal Society. The pain felt by crippled persons was experienced in part by those who run the six miles from Flagstaff Park to the final resting place of the great fellow athlete. About 28 men ran in the first race. Last year's event attracted 90 entrants, and this year 168 men, women, and children took part in the annual event.

The mausoleum holding Jim Thorpe's body is located in Jim Thorpe, Pennsylvania. In 1953, the town of Mauch Chunk (meaning Bear Mt. in the Indian tongue) and its counterpart on the east side of the Lehigh River joined to form the present borough of Jim Thorpe. It is some 80 miles north of Philadelphia and situated near the famed Pocono Mountains. A community rich in history, it was the home of Asa Packer, one of several millionaires residents. He was the founder of Lehigh University, organizer of the Lehigh Canal and the Lehigh Valley Railroad, which both played an important role in the then thriving coal mining industry of the area.

Those grand days passed and the joining of the two communities along with the changing of the name was an effort to revive the towns industrial potential and spirit. Plans for a hospital, stadium, athletic equipment company, and a Football Hall of Fame were proposed, worked on, and failed.

The twenty ton granite mausoleum laid upon soil from the Olympic Stadium in Stockholm, the Polo Grounds in New York, and Jim's home state is all that remains. The prosperity they sought has not come but nevertheless, the community's spirit symbolized that exemplified by Jim Thorpe in gaining his many accomplishments.

Jim Thorpe, both the town and the man, will not be forgotten. Nor will the children afflicted by crippling illnesses. The Jim Thorpe Memorial Run sponsored by the Carbon County Kiwanis Club will afford runners an opportunity to participate in an unique race. One which will keep the spirit of Jim Thorpe alive and help those who can't become what he was "the Greatest Athlete in the World" (King Gustav V - 1912 Olympics).

Race Notes. . . The results of this race were figured according to the Ken Young point tables (Runners World, November 1972), with places based on time in parentheses. Using Ken's time tables, there was very little change in the top ten places. The runners who moved most in the standings were the good older runners - Bob Martin, 53, who moved from 29th to 15th, Mal Shortleff, 51, from 24th to 13th and Luke Steele, 49, from 26th to 16th. Congratulations to all the tough old men! It was a good race up front, with John Leach running a steady 5:00 pace most of the way to pull away from the leading pack made up of some of the best road runners in the Midwest--Dike Stirrett, Phil Davis, Tom Hoffman and Jim McLatchie. After the race, instead of trophies, etc., the top 12 finishers had an all-you-can-eat brunch at the elegant Court House Restaurant in Hyde Park. (Pete Elliott won that one!)

RACE NOTES. . . It was cruel to hold a marathon under such bitterly cold weather conditions but when 145 runners arrived at race time, there was no doubt about what they came for. The wind gusted up to 30 mph with a temperature of 17° at the start of the race and dropped steadily until the night time low was a record -4° for Ohio for an all-time low for any spring temperature. Finishing marathoners were well covered with icicles from their chin and ears. Winner, Doug Nevius, was one of three excellent runners from Malone College in Canton, Ohio. The first master finisher, Jack Gray, of Northern Ontario, Canada, travelled 575 miles to participate in the marathon. Becky Wagner, the only woman finisher, had no trouble completing the long distance on her first attempt. The race netted over $330 for the American Heart Association for heart disease research. There were 52 starters in the marathon, seven relay teams of three, and twelve relay teams of six.

Ed. "That Texas wind is famous! Barney Kwell used to tell me that all those Texas sprinters used to run 9.4 & 9.5 all spring then come up to New York for the Nat'l AAU's in June & get wiped out by 'Old Barney' in 9.8!"

DAN MOYNIHAN CRUSHED WELLESLEY FIELD!

Wellesley, Mass., March 31, 1974- For the second week in a row Dan Moynihan had only the stopwatch for competition in romping to a 1:22 victory over a 15.4 kilo course (a little less than 10 miles). In doing so Dan became the first repeat winner in the five year history of the Wellesley run, and the second fastest American ever behind Art Daborg (48:48 to 48:53). Irishman Pat McMahon holds the course record of 47:59, with three Finns having the next best times.

The weather conditions should have been conducive to fast running as it was drizzling and 80 degrees. Few but Moynihan seem to have benefitted however, as many complained of tight legs and slower times than previous years. Moynihan crossed the finish line quite fresh looking, and nearly had time for a full interview before the rest of the race showed up. Seven runners outkicked each other for the other top places, all within 32s of each other.

JIM STRONACH WINS SECOND IN A ROW

Waltham, Mass., April 21, 1974- Jim Stronach apparently has wasted no time resting on his laurels after his big win in the Marsh Post Handicap. Here two weeks afterward, in his very next race, Jim has the first scratch win of his young career. Leaving no room for doubt Stronach defeated hometown favorite Bob Ferrari and the field by a whopping 2:10 in a race billed as 10 miles but probably closer to 11.

Many Boston Marathoners were using this run as a loosener, a mere 6 days after the 26 miler. First of these, and also the first Master to finish, was Tony Sapientza of the BAA. Paul Schell (4th) and Harold Gabriel (10th) both of the NMC were the other gluttons for punishment in the top 10.

The weather was a sunny 75° or more, and of course there were some of those good New England hills.

WILLIE SPECK WINS AT COVENTRY, R.I.

May 4, 1974- After more than two years of injuries, layoffs, and therapy Willie Speck may be ready to take his place among the leaders. Since his 7th place finish in the 1971 Boston Marathon Speck's running career turned sour. His knees went bad, then his achilles. He couldn't run at all, let alone race. For a period of time he was driving from Providence to Boston every day to get treatments from Jock Semple, BAA honcho and Physical Therapist. Finally, during the early 1974 season, signs of improvement showed through. After some impressive warmup races he ran 2:25 at Boston, his second fastest marathon ever. Now with a convinc-ing 10 mile victory Willie would appear to be back at a once-familiar spot - the top.

Notes... The weather was perfect for a postponement, but club officials had promised to hold the race "come hell or high water," because many of the runners had come from out of state for the event. The cold was hell, and high water was a distinct possibility. Bird Creek, only a half mile away, had flooded the course last week, leaving a film of mud on the asphalt. The hard, frigid north wind and the hundreds of puddles on the road made things very difficult! The chill factor was minus 10 degrees.

SIX MILE OPEN, COLUMBIA ISLAND MARINA

Washington, D.C., May 11, 1974 11:00 A.M. - For an ordinary D.C. RRC weekly race, this 6-mile open attracted a classy field. Bernie Allen shot out like a bullet, and Ken Misner stayed right on his heels, as the two went through their first mile in 4:34. Not far back were Cliff Clark and Jack Mahurin, with Justin Gubbins (recently of Georgetown U.) and Jere Van Dyke (3:57 miler, 6:40 steepchaser) close behind. Early in the race, Clark's shoe came untied. He stopped to fix it--and he surely rates among the world's fastest shoe-tiers, for he was back in no time and passed Mahurin at about two miles. Meanwhile, Misner fell off the pace and dropped back to fifth. From then on the race was Allen's; he went through 5 in about 14:25 and slowed only slightly as he finished in 29:08.

This race, originally scheduled for Theodore Roosevelt Island, had to be moved when the Park Service reseeded the island race. This day's events were held on a mile-and-a-half stretch of bike trail between Memorial Bridge and the airport. Toward the end of the six-mile, this caused some traffic problems as the runners' use of the trail was challenged (verbally and otherwise) by cyclists armed with whistles and horns.

The three mile women's race attracted a large field for such events around here, with Aileen O'Connor (age 12) an easy winner. The two-mile also saw lots of winners, as the first 50 (of 59) received a copy of Runner's World.

MARATHONER KEN YOUNG CAPTURES 15-MILE IN RECORD TIME

Littleton, Colorado, March 24, 1974 -- Super-marathon ace, Ken Young, a lithe crew-cut runner representing the University of Chicago Track Club, raced to a new course record today over the hilly 3-looped 15-mile road race. His intermediate times of 27:45 and 55:47 were faster than he had run in the 5 miler in January and in the 10 in February. His mark of 1:23.45 bettered the old record of Tom Berger of 1:24.46, set in March of 1972. Ronn Smith, of Golden, Colorado, ran a strong pace -- as he just missed Berger's mark by one second. Eric Groon, the Boston AA ace now living in Boulder, hung in for third place, with a fine 1:25.18.

The fastest over-40 runner today was 45-year-old Roger Wilcox, with a great 1:31.52, easily bettering the over-40 standard set by Gerry Vincent in 1972 of 1:35.01. The only woman to complete the course was Barbara Martin, with her longest competitive effort to date. Her time was a fine 1:57.32 -- approximately 4 1/2 minutes off the women's course mark set by Pam Weigle some two months prior to her 3:19 marathon in 1972.
