Notes. . . The Highway Patrol was concerned about runners "obstructing" the highway on the scheduled course Clarkdale to Jerome, and threatened to halt the race if run as planned. They overlooked the laws permitting bicycles on highways (A. R. S.) (28-815), horses (28-625), and even lowly pedestrians walking on the highway (28-796). Sgt. Morris and Sgt. Lee said a permit was required from the Highway Commission, but permits are required only for excess size and weight vehicles (28-1011), the likes of which skinny distance runners do not resemble in the slightest. . . The Racing Director considered sacrificing the Club Chairman to the Highway Patrol, by sending him out in the lead at the start of the race and letting him be arrested, with the hope that the officer would not be able to collar the other twenty-six runners. Don Stewart's lack of enthusiasm for the idea was exceeded only by his negative attitude. . . Happily, an excellent alternative course was mapped out through the old mining town of Jerome, & on out the gravel Perkinsville road, a climb of about 1300 feet, with the finish line arbitrarily selected at the same site where Anita, Hank and Vicki had painted their names in blue on a red rock. Skyler Jones, Arizona State U. distance star, sported out to an early lead, gained on the steepest hills, and passed "Anita, Hank and Vicki" two minutes ahead of Jerry Johaki. Don Tate and Ed Zuck of Phoenix College, chugged up in good time for third and fourth, ahead of Pete Sevin & Mike Jauregui, of A. S. U. All 26 starters finished, with Jenny Scheufler, 16, of nearby Cottonwood, only woman in the race, finishing strongly (60:41 - 26th) in her first competition. . . Tune in next year to learn whether we challenge the Highway Patrol, or stay with the Perkinsville road. --Steve Stephenson--

CHARLIE BROWN FINALLY WINNER (IN BURRO RACE) Colorado Springs, Colo., August 9, 1971

Steve Mathews of Denver, four-time winner of the highest burro race in the world, again captured first place in the grueling 21.1 pack burro race to the top of 13,185-foot Mosquito Pass and back to Leadville. Mathews and his side-kick, Charlie Brown, made the course in two hours 25 minutes 27.3 seconds. Top prize was $1,000, with the first 10 racers to finish also receiving cash prizes.

Second place was taken by Carl Lee of Beulah, with his burro, Little Jack, who were just a step ahead of Lee Courkamp of Denver and his burro, Rusty. Both were about five minutes behind Mathews and his burro.

An estimated 3,000 persons turned out in Leadville to participate in the Burro Days celebration, which included a number of contests including mining competition. Hundreds watched the pack burro race, with a field of 14 tying their burros equipped with packs of mining equipment in front of the historic Vendome Hotel, then lining up a block behind them.

When the starting gun went off, the racers sped to their little "mountain canaries," untied them and were on their way to the summit of Mosquito Pass via the Matchless Mine.

There, 73-year-old Rudy Fahl of Colorado Springs began having problems with his burro and had to quit the race.

Joe Glavinick of Leadville with his colorful burro, Ringo, had trouble along the way, when Ringo refused to pass the burro in front of him.

Glavinick said that he quit six times during the race to wait for an official vehicle to pick him up, but changed his mind to plod ahead and finished in fourth place.

Buck Swensack of San Francisco, a mountain climber, deep sea diver, winner of many AAU racing events (?) found that it was one thing to win at sea level and quite another to race with a burro at a 13,000 ft. elevation. He came in eleventh.

Walt Stack, 63, also of San Francisco, was the last of the 14 racers to finish. Susan Forbes, 16, of Denver the only girl in the race, came in tenth.

Larry Lewis, 104 years old, who planned to enter the race from San Francisco, was unable to compete because of concern for his 73-year-old wife who was confined to a hospital during the past few days.

JEMEZ PUEBLO INDIAN WINS PIKE'S PEAK MARATHON SIXTH TIME! (Distinctive features - Peter Strudwick, no hands, no feet; T. V. Documentary; Family competition; Reunion of Champions; First Race Walk.)

Steve Gachupin, 29, of Jemez Pueblo, N.M., continued his domination of the world famous Pike's Peak Marathon Sunday, August 15th by winning the event for the sixth straight time with a near record pace of 2:17:23 for the ascent and 3:46:26 for the 26.8-mile round trip.

Gachupin, a custodian at an Indian school during working days, finished more than eight minutes ahead of his nearest competitor, Ken Kattzer, 29, Lincoln, Nebraska, whose time was 3:55:06. Third place went to Capt. Ernie Cudliffe, 33, Air Force Academy, 4:03:49; Fourth, Charles Vigil, 19, Craig, Colo., 4:05:43; Fifth, Roger Briggs, 21, Boulder, 4:06:05 and sixth, Steve Matthews 30, Denver, 4:17:10.

Gachupin competed against a field of 191 competitors ranging in age from 8 to 66. The race, which started at 7:30 a.m. in front of the Cog Railroad Station in Manitou Springs, climbed 13 miles up the Barr Trail to the top of Pike's Peak.

Peter Strudwick, 41, from LaPalma, California, a quadruple amputee, made it to the top in a respectable 5 hours, 25 minutes (see 4:36:58 according to Rudy Fahl) then finished the trip down in 8:12:23 (7:06:58 according to Rudy!) He ran in specially constructed boots. He was born without hands or feet, pilots his own plane and drives his car, and has a masters degree in Engineering. Pete is married and has four children.

For the first time in its history KNBC, Burbank, Calif. took a documentary TV film from helicopter of the entire race. This was directed by Mr. John Gentry and his crew of technicians who landed along the trail at Barr Camp and the summit.

Pictures were taken of Dr. Vincent L. de Clutts and his family as well as Peter Strudwick as they jogged up the trail to show their progress in a study of the effects of physical exertion and exhaustion on the human body. At the finish line a research unit was set up by Dr. Stephen Steen, professor of anesthetics at Harbor General Hospital on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles. Tests involved collecting blood from both the veins and arteries of runners, respiration and temperature and taking electrocardiograms.

Families competed against other families, notably, the de Clutts and the Boitano families from California, & the Cleveland and Ruggles families from Manitou Springs.

Mrs. Joyce (Skip) Swannack, 29, Belmont, California made the 13 mile ascent in 4:21:30 and the round trip in 7:07:16. Mary Felts record of 3:52:55 still holds.

Steve Gachupin learned to run while chasing wild horses when a boy. Every time in his six Pike's Peak victories he has run up and down without stopping for even a drink of water, Steve said. "I win because Jemez Indians are the fastest mountain runners in the Western Hemisphere."

Former Pike's Peak champions Monte Wolford, Calvin Hansen and John Rose all competed in their age divisions at this reunion along with Robert Morgan, John Francis, Al Carroll and other old time competitors.

Entries came from 33 states and Japan with the largest out-of-state delegation - 39 men, women and children - from California headed by Walt Stack of San Francisco.

The race had its odd moments, as well as temp. changes. Snow started falling above the timberline. The runners started in 50° temp. and at the summit it was 38°. The runners found themselves enveloped by cold misty clouds two-thirds up the mountain. At the finish it was 82 degrees. The date set for the 17th Annual Pike's Peak Marathon is August 14, 1972. 300 runners expected.

1. Steve Gachupin, 29, 3:46:26; 2. Ken Kattzer, 29, 3:55:06; 3. Capt. Ernie Cudliffe, 33, 4:03:49; 4. Chas. Vigil, 19, 4:05:43; 5. Chas. Boben, 10, Lakewood, 4:06:05; 6. Steve Matthews, 30, 4:17:10 (* one report lists Boben, another report lists Briggs as 10th?) 7. Frank Armijo, 21, Jemez Pueblo, N.M., 4:19:54; 8. Michael Blair, 19, Kansas, 4:21:29; 9. John Rose, 33, LaCrosse, Kansas, 4:27:37; 10. Louis Fritz, 28, Vardon, Nebraska, 4:36:07. (Lee Courkamp got lost on the poorly marked trail, or would have finished third, according to Ernie Cudliffe. The Cornhuskers captured the team title. The Rocky Mt. RR would have easily won the team award if Courkamp had not strayed.)

In the Senior group (40-59 years), Hal Higdon, 40, Michigan City, Indiana, established a record ascent of 2:41:06. Last year Dr. Ralph Padlerbarger, 47, San Francisco held the record in 2:51:18. Hal liked the stimulating mountain air and altitude so he ran down the trail and completed the jaunt in 3:41:04. However, Peter Mames, 46, San Francisco still is the record-holder with 4:17:30 to his credit. 2. Gerry Vincent, 40, Denver, 2:50:47; 3. Robert Morgan, 49, Indiana, Pa., 3:00:24; 4. Peter Mattel, 47, 3:09:52; 5. Bob Carlson, 47, Boulder, 3:11:52; 6. Gil Tarin, 41, San Ramon, Calif., 3:14:36; 7. Rudy Faasnacht, 50, Detroit, Mich., 3:25:56; 8. Isiah Livesteller, 49, Lehigh, 3:27:12; 9. Birger Larson, 53, Colo. Springs, 3:29:01; 10. Ernie Sells, 42, San Francisco, 3:29:30; 11. Wilbur Arnold 57, Pueblo, 3:30:27; 12. Bill Bristol, 47, San Francisco, 3:45:56.

Veterans Div. (35-39 years) Ascent- 1. Robert Green, 36, Washington, D.C., 2:43:53; 2. Arne Richards, 38, Manhattan, Kansas, 2:48:30; 3. Don McMahan, 35, Pueblo, 2:56:46; 4. Cal Hansen, 34, Pueblo, 2:59:38. Masters Div. (40 & Over)- 1. Lucas Toledo, 64, Jemez Pueblo, N.M., 3:58:00 (reported as Steve Gachupin's uncle); 2. Walt Stack, 63, 4:03:13; 3. Wayne Beall, 65, Southgate, Mich., 4:22:13.

Teenage Div. (16-18) Ascent- 1. Ben Montoya, 16, Fountain, Colo., 2:51:27; 2. Kenneth Baldwin, 17, Arvada, 3:05:23; 3. Carlton Harris, 16, Kansas, 3:09:15 & Under Ascent- 1. David Costas, 13, Redwood City Striders, 2:53:35 (4:51:37 round trip); 2. Richard Kennedy, 15, Colo. Springs, 3:22:12; 3. Richard King, 15, Colo. Springs, 3:24:11; 4. David Blagley, 12, RCS, 3:27:15.

Maryetta Boitano, 8, of San Francisco was the youngest ever to make the ascent. Her mother, Mary Lucille, 48, accompanied her. Their time was 6:34:30. Brother Mike, 9, made the ascent in 4:54:27.

QUANTICO, VA., U.S. MARINE CORPS BASE
 August 1, 1971 - This marked a new locale for DC RRC races. The races were organized and conducted with typical Marine Corps efficiency by Capt. Tom Keene & Don Davis. All races were partly on roads and partly on scenic trails through the woods. The 10 kilo was mostly flat for the first half but had some very challenging inclines in the second half. Guys were cursing and moaning for 10 minutes after they finished, but after they had time to recover and reflect they thought it was a great course. Excellent turnout of over 150 runners in the three races. Weather: Hot and humid.

10-KILO RUN - 1. Don Kennedy, 35:24; 2. George Christopher, 37:28; 3. Dennis Delmott, 37:38; 4. Chas. Zeger, 38:00; 5. Mike Morrell, 38:56; 6. Bob Bauman, 38:58; 7. Howie Michael, 39:44; 8. Al French, 39:56; 9. John Winslow, 40:57; 10. Charlie Payne, 40:46; 11. Tom Ceras, 40:59; 12. Lt. Childers, 41:37; 13. Dave Leuthold, 41:54; 14. Mark Haggerty, 42:57; 15. Jim Wrenn, 42:03; 16. Al Astley, 42:19; 17. Bill Godfrey, 42:29; 18. Eugene Krassoski, 42:40; 19. Reid Elder, 42:43; 20. Ed Jerome, 42:56; 21. Don Dalsell, 43:05; 22. Ed Strabel, 43:32; 23. Jim Rowe, 44:15; 24. Frank Masterson, 44:39; 25. John Ewers, 44:32; 26. Dave Bloor, 44:53; 27. Ben Ewers, 44:59; 28. Marty Sullivan, 45:07; 29. Bob Eishhammer, 45:25; 30. Red Steele, 47:15. (30 starters, 46 finishers)

3-MILE TEEN RACE - 1. Robert Cook, 16:01; 2. Greg Gerlach, 16:05; 3. Dave Sandridge, 16:29; 4. Bob Pope, 16:45; 5. Craig Talley, 17:13; 6. Tim Amass, 17:19; 7. Tom Mullen, 17:23; 8. Steve Georgia, 17:27; 9. Steve Curtis, 17:37; 10. Tim Dalton, 18:01; 11. Craig Hodley, 18:17; 12. John Slocum, 18:26. (17 finishers)

RFYL 2-MILES - 1. Lt. Thomas Childers, 10:24; 2. David Oyer, 10:38; 3. Gary Darby, 11:00; 4. David Dolinger, 11:38; 5. John O'Toole, 11:24; 6. Earl Cook, 11:42; 7. Richie Rowe, 11:44; 8. Gerry Magentry, 11:53; 9. Scott Sansbury, 11:53; 10. Dayton Self, 11:53; 11. Mike Selmer, 12:07; 12. Larry McLaughlin, 12:30. (95 finishers)

Note... Winner of the 10km, Don Kennedy, is a GI from Ft. Benning studying Orienteering at Quantico.

ANNANDALE H.S., ANNANDALE, VIRGINIA

August 5, 1971- Dominance of the distance running scene this summer in Washington, D.C. by Bob Thurston was again demonstrated when he won this 6-mile open race on one of Washington's rare cool evenings. Both the 6-mile and 3-mile teen races were run over the streets of this Washington suburban community. The other two races were run on the school's cinder track. MOSES MAYFIELD WINS FORT STANWIX RACE

Rome, N.Y., Sunday, August 8, 1971- Moses Mayfield, 26, Philadelphia, Pa., of the Penn Athletic Club, won the first 13-mile Fort Stanwix road race in 68:52, concluding Fort Stanwix Days activities.

The race was an unqualified success drawing 104 contestants from as far west as Toledo, Ohio, north to Gardner, Maine and south to Florida.

Second was Tom Smith, 19, a graduate of Notre Dame High, Utica, who covered the course in 69:38.

Third was Ralph Thomas 35, a construction worker from Gardner, Maine, who covered the route in 67:44. Thomas hitchhiked from his home town the day before the race. He hitchhiked his way home immediately after the race.

The race was run under ideal conditions with an overcast in 68 degree temperatures. Mayfield led all the way.

Kathy Miller, 24, Syracuse, won the women's division in 91:35 finishing 67th in the field. Second was Kay Harrison, a 19 year old Mohawk Valley Community College student from Oneonta, who finished 79th in the field with a time of 112:33.

Sam Gratch, of Utica, a Rome native won the 40 and older division, finishing 32nd in the field in 75:41.

Arnie Briggs, 58, won the 50 & over division by finishing 52nd with a time of 86:21.

PHILADELPHIAN SETS MARK IN PHELPS RACE

Phelps, N.Y., Sat., August 7, 1971- Moses Mayfield Jr. of Philadelphia outdistanced 52 competitors to cap the fifth annual Sauerkraut Festival Race. The Penn AC ace ran the 11.5-miles over some of the hilliest terrain in upstate New York in record time of 58:44.5.

Mayfield, 26, weighs only 120 pounds and stands a mere 5-6. Usually, after a race, a runner loses from five to ten pounds, but Mayfield, trying to catch his breath after running in a blazing sun, said, "I seldom lose more than a pound in a race."

Moses spent all Friday night on a bus, got to Rochester at 6:30 A.M. Saturday & won two races in two days!

"I usually take better care of myself," he explained, "but there was so little time so I caught a bus right after work." Mayfield is a metal finisher for a Philadelphia manufacturing concern.

"My wife probably thinks I'm just a little bit nuts," he grinned, "but she tolerates my running. Some day I'd like to win the Boston Marathon, then I think I'd be satisfied to retire." Hot & humid, 86 degrees.

1. Moses Mayfield, Penn AC, 58:44.5 (New record; old record, 60:17 by Dick Ashley, Roch. TC, 1969); 2. Wm. Speck, Lockport TC, 59:55; 3. Jim Boyle, Roch. TC, 62:49; 4. Brian Quinn, Albany TC, 63:04; 5. Skip Mono, Syracuse TC, 63:10; 6. Don Brown, Roch. TC, 63:55; 7. Craig Harms, Toledo, Ohio, 64:35; 8. Tom Doehler, Roch. TC, 64:02; 9. JOHN SHEA RETIRES WINTON BIATHLON TITLE

Winston, N.C., Sept. 3, 1971- John Shea swam and ran his way to first place for the fourth straight year in the Winton Biathlon (7.50 mile swim and 3-mile run). He completed the event in 36:58. He was first out of the water with a time of 18:36. The rest of the field of 11 trailed from two to thirteen minutes. At this point, Shea was again faced with the task of capitalizing on his swim lead to stay ahead of several superior runners in the field behind him. This he did by running the 3 miles in 17:22 to finish 2:50 ahead of his 12-year-old sister, Julie. Marshall Adams of Raleigh clocked 15:07 for the fastest running time. Trophies were awarded to the first ten places, the fastest swim, fastest run, and first female. This is expected to be the last year of the event as race director, Fred Hurd is leaving the area. Several similar events have sprung up across the nation in recent years, however, the Winton event is the first one known.

1. John Shea, 16, Raleigh, N.C., 36:58.1 (18:35.8, 17:22.3 (Nat'l. Jr. Pentath. Champ.); 2. PROGRESSIVE RELAY FINISHING

Toledo, Ohio, August 15, 1971- Jim Edwards developed a race that had everybody in pain by the end. The two-man relay went like this: the lead man did a 440, then the second man did a 440, then each man did an 880, then one mile, then two miles, then one mile, then an 880, and finally a 440! This totaled 5 1/2 miles per man. The race was rough for all, and all teams helped keep track of their own laps.

1. LaPlante & Lachowski, 53:15; 2. Turner & Deye, 55:06; 3. McGraney & Peski, 55:30; 4. Stender & Kolhoff, 56:08; 5. Eikum & Daniels, 56:45; 6. Lorton & Wells, 56:49; 7. Mack & Lomas, 57:41; 8. Harms & Hayes, 58:03; 9. Knoll & Como, 59:36; 10. Jameson & Hahn, 61:04. --Craig O. Harms--

THEY RUN FOR FUN (EVEN AT 50 MILES)

A score of "Fitness Freaks" completed competed in the recent Summer Tri-City Distance Running Jamboree at Albany's Washington Park and they talked about the REAL story about the loneliness or agony or frustration of the distance runner.

"Frustration?" repeats Bill Shradler, head of the runningest household in New York State. "The only frustrating thing about running is when some young guy stands on a corner and tells you to get a horse."

"Loneliness?" adds the father of eight runners after winning the 50-and-over division of the 3.5-mile Masters race. "Well, if you mean being alone, I was very lonely on the second lap around the park when all the younger guys had passed me."

As for the distance runners' so-called agony, don't believe it. Oh, some of the runners in a 10-mile run around Washington Park on a hot day grimace in pain, others may stagger and one or two may even collapse. But it's all good natured fun.

Take Tom Oslar, who trails each day by running from his Latham home to RPI where he teaches math. He was just getting warmed up in the 10-mile race when it ended with him in second place behind Tom Ståland, the Dartmouth runner from Cambridge.

Oslar, you see, is a 31-year-old former champion of the National Road Runners Club 50-mile championship as well as a veteran of the Boston Marathon and winner of National AAU titles at 25 and 30 kilometers.

A 50-mile run? What's it like?

"Well," replied Oslar who achieved his chief claim to fame in 1967 at Poughkeepsie. "The race began at 6 a.m.

"It was impossible to imagine what it would be like to race 50 miles, even though I had taken practice runs of 48 and 55 miles before. I mean, it's easy to visualize 10 miles, but 50 miles - wow!

"All I kept thinking to myself was that the race would take about six hours, which meant we would be running non-stop until noon."

The math teacher's computation was a mite off, for it was 11:52 a.m. when he crossed the finish line with a time of 5:52:05 - at that time the second fastest ever run at a distance that is about 2 1/2 miles shy of two marathons.

Running Math Teacher

Tom Oslar, who has won National AAU distance running titles at 25 and 30 kilometers and who once won a 50-mile run, is shown striding up Sage Avenue Hill in Troy enroute to job as RPI math teacher. Oslar runs from his home in Latham to school and back home every day.

Oslar said that physically it took him three months to recover from the 50-miler (as opposed to one month for a marathon), but that mentally it was nothing but a good trip.

"You're too busy racing and trying to stay on course to let your mind wander," he said.

Like most distance runners, who can be seen plodding along all kinds of roads in all kinds of weather, Oslar has his favorite training-run story.

"This happened to me in South Jersey where I used to live," he said. "It was the day after a snow storm and I was taking a 17-mile run through this park.

"Well," he went on, "while I was running there was a chase going on in the park. The police were chasing some guys who had stolen a car. The crooks were now on foot and had fanned out in different directions.

"It didn't help that the outfit I had on - boots and a heavy jacket - was just about the same worn by the crooks.

"Anyway, I came to this railroad embankment, which goes up on one side and down on the other. I was just coming down when I saw this police car coming right at me. I waved to the cop to get out of my way, but he stopped right in front of me, forcing me to run wide to get around the car. Just as I got past the front door, the cop jumped out and tackled me.

"I asked what was going on, but he just picked up the two-way radio in the car and told somebody, 'I got him.' I told him, 'you got yourself a lot of trouble.' But he finally believed my story that I was just doing what I did every day - run."

Most of the runners pulled echoed the sentiments of Jim McFado, winner of the masters race.

"I run to stay in shape," the 38-year-old electrical engineer from Utica explained. "The competition provides the incentive."

"Running is personally rewarding," says Albany's Art Abr, who recently displayed another type of stamina by competing in a 70-mile canoe race from Cooperstown to Danabridge. "On good days, you can find all sorts of glorious reasons why you should be running. On bad days it's like pulling the edge on the sword."

"I run," says Assemblyman Tom Brown, "for the same reason a man will climb a mountain. Finishing the Boston Marathon in under three hours made me feel like I had reached the top of Mount Everest."

"I felt I had to set an example for my kids," said Dick Ellis, Sr., father of the ex-Yoorheesville High distance ace, who was proud of his 20th place finish in the masters race. "That means six runners finished behind me, and that's not bad considering this was my first competitive race in 24 years."

Red-headed Tom Robinson, winner of the open five-mile race, sees running as a "Microcosm of life, itself. You get psyched up when you do well and let down after a bad race.

"I find," he said, "that running takes your mind off your troubles. And it offers companionship. There's nothing like when eight or nine guys get together and run through the New York state countryside, talking to each other on the way.

Robinson plans to keep on running indefinitely.

And that says a lot for a sport that is so lonely, agonizing and frustrating. --Gene Levy--

(22 started, 20 finished) Winner averaged 5:38 per mile. Course: Paved roads, moderately hilly. Weather: Alternately sunny & cloudy, light breeze. Temp. 75-80°

* Ran 10 mile race at Baldwinville earlier in the day.

The Finger Lakes Runners Club scored a sweep of the trophies by taking the first six places. Jim Meade, a graduate student at Cornell was the winner over Tim Welles, a Corning Glass Works engineer, and Ithaca HS Senior, Tom Hartshorne. Bob Congdon (4th) is a teacher and coach at Caroline School, and Wilf Brutsaert is a Cornell Professor. Terry Habecker (6th) is an Ithaca Phys. Ed. teacher, who is better known throughout the Niagara District of the A. A. U. for his wrestling prowess although he recently ran a 4:28 mile and a 2:55:41 marathon. Smith-Corona Marchant, Inc. provided the trophies. --Don Balsamo--

NOTES... There were 245 runners waiting to begin the NYC Marathon. Runners with long hair and runners with long foreheads and one runner with a West Point shirt and a crew cut. A runner's sweatshirt carried the warning, "Don't follow me - I'm lost." another walked toward the starting line. His running shoes in his hands, asking if there was still time to fill out an entry form. And another was telling his friends before he spurred out, "I'm going to take it easy for the first 12 miles." For the people with the numbers on their backs, the weather was ideal, no sun, no sign of humidity. Winner, Norm Higgins is a Fuller Brush salesman from New London, Conn. No one was close to him, unless you count the people he was lapping. The tall, lean, greying runner swept past the finish line, accepted a two-foot trophy, poured a cup of water over his head to cool off, did it again to make the photographers happy, changed into a dry shirt and sweatpants and then trotted away because it isn't a good idea to stand around soaking wet after running 26.2 miles. Higgins was at Van Cortlandt Park earlier in the morning to run 5000 m.

when someone suggested he try the marathon instead. ¹⁷ It wasn't an unreasonable idea. He was the National AAU marathon champion in 1966. He trains hard enough—running a reported 200 miles every week when he isn't walking five to 10 miles a day on his door-to-door job or coaching a girls' high school track team. He has ambitious plans. "I'm hoping to set a record next year for the 35 year old age group." This year he cracked John J. Kelley's 34-year-old record of 2:25:53 - 4/19/65. He wasn't, however, the most famous 34-year-old in the race. That record belonged to Erich Segal, the author of "Love Story." Segal finished 104th, coming in almost an hour-and-a-quarter behind the winner. Call it a happy ending. --Joe Kleiserman--

BRUCE JOHNSON WINS 5-MILE CROSS-COUNTRY

Phila., Pa., Sunday, Sept. 26, 1971 1:00 P.M. - Bruce Johnson, St. Joseph's College senior, romped to an easy victory over teammate Joe Brady on the hilly Belmont Plateau course in Fairmount Park. The former St. James (Chester, Pa.) HS ace clocked 27:21 in the race. Belmont Plateau is one of the most testing 5-country courses anywhere. It led veteran George Braceland to remark after the race: "The hills are so tough that if you just reach out you would have a handful of dirt!"

The Middle Atlantic AAU race was sponsored by the Middle Atlantic Road Runners Club.

TEAL SETS MARATHON RECORD IN RAIN & FOG; ENTERED POLICE GAMES JUST FOR THE PRACTICE
Scarborough, Ontario, Sat., July 24, 1971- Jerry Teal, the winner in record time of the 89th Metro Toronto Police Games marathon is a foul weather racer.

A steady rain persisted throughout the 26 mile 188y contest with the temp. in the low 60s and a thick fog limiting visibility to a couple of hundred feet. For Teal, these were ideal conditions. He completed the run in 2:10:48; one minute and four seconds better than the old Police Games record held by Ron Wallingford.

"The rain keeps the temperatures down by at least 10 degrees and makes it great for running," explained the 27-year-old English teacher from Niagara Falls.

Teal, who came out for a practice run, ended up running a real good race. He ran in fourth place for the first 16 miles and then moved into third spot for the next four miles. He turned it on for the last six miles to win by a big margin.

Teal trains by running along roads and through a golf course in the Niagara Parkway area. Lately he has been running about 90 miles a week but plans to increase this to 110-150 miles.

Leslie Buck of Toronto Striders was second of the 43 starters, 40 of whom finished, with a time of 2:32:35. 8. J. Danny Anderson, Sudbury, 2:36:13. 2; 4. Craig Harms, Toledo, 2:37:19. 4.

The youngest runner to finish was 15-year-old Ken Steele of York Simcoe. His 3:27:35 time was good for 16th place.

The vice-principal of Eastern Commerce H.S., Jack Webb, 52, was the oldest runner to finish. He was in 20th position with a 3:37:15 clocking.

"I had an achilles tendon graft done in September 1969," related Webb. "My leg hurts to run but it is bearable. I think it is worth it to get the exercise."

At the evening events, Barry Brown of Gainesville, Fla., failed in a bid to run a sub-four minute mile and finished in 4:01. 4, his second best time.

"The conditions were perfect for the race," explained Brown. "I hadn't planned on taking the lead until the three-quarters, but the pace slowed at the half so I had to run by myself. I started getting tight with about 200 to go so rather than strain I tried to stay loose and pick up speed. It didn't work." Ergas Laps of Toronto placed second and Toronto Striders' Tom Pearson was third.

COLEMAN MOONEY WINS HISPANIC MARATHON

Central Park, New York City, August 31 - Coleman Mooney, Millrose AA, won the Puerto Rican Hispanic Marathon in 2:39:52 over the certified course in Central Park. The marathon was the feature of the P.R. Hispanic Sports Council's three days of sports in New York City. Kurt Steiner started the three day sports festival off by carrying a lighted torch from Little League Baseball Headquarters in Brooklyn to the Central Park Mall on 12nd Street.

A 16.2 mile run for Latin-American runners was staged at the same time as the marathon and was won by Raphael A. Perez of Costa Rica in 1:16:05. Aguatin Calle of Colombia was second.

In the marathon Mooney took the lead at ten miles & pulled away to win easily from Luis Torres of Puerto Rico. There were 30 starters and 25 finishers. The first five runners received wrist watches and all the others received trophies. Hot, humid weather and lack of publicity cut the entry list.

Marty Liquori: Villanova's Straight-Talking Supermiler

Booed for his brashness and frankly admitting that becoming rich is one of his main ambitions, he's hardly the archetypal college sports hero.

Bernie Barrett's the culprit. Curse that Bernie Barrett. He's the one. Beat the tail off Marty Liquori, he'd, never realizing that at the same time he was stoking those flickering flames into the fire that rages even at this moment. Get near Liquori and you feel it. Get too close—like challenge him—and you'll most probably get burned.

Barrett was always bigger than Liquori and he whipped him at just about everything. "It seemed he was always coming home complaining that Bernie scored one or two more than he did," said Liquori's mother.

Her son admits it: "Yah, Bernie was bigger and he beat me pretty good. A lot of guys beat me back then. That's when losing didn't matter too much. Now that it does... well, I'm up there with the best of them."

Liquori's only game now is running. It's an old game. Except for shoe styling changes and rubberized tracks, it's still pretty much what it was when Troy was shuffling Sparta. One man against another. Who's the fastest? Let's find out. On your mark. Go.

There's no whipped cream in track. No balloons or blinking lights or female flesh to stifle the press prompted by what passes as athletic competition. No team play in which to hide mistakes or a dugout or bench to retreat to. It all hangs out. You live or die on your own in the clear light of day.

This is Marty Liquori's game. He's a middle-distance runner (one to three miles) and he is considered one of the finest ever. He may possibly be the best in the world today. Dan Ferris, venerable official of the Amateur Athletic Union and Jim Elliott, Liquori's coach and one of track's most respected figures, believe Marty has the best prospects of being the first man ever to run one mile in three minutes and 30 seconds.

Sports writers are given to hyperbole; they like the word "super." If pressed, however, most of them will probably admit that, in truth, Marty Liquori is the only super athlete now performing in this town, amateur or professional.

He has won every major American championship and medal available in his running class, not just once but in some cases two and three years running. He has never lost a race in pressure-drenched

Madison Square Garden (through 13 contests) and he has gone undefeated as anchor man in 10 races at Franklin Field. Also, he continues to lick the best men in his class including the mile world record holder Jim Ryan (three times) and Kenya's illustrious Kipchoge Keino. Liquori's primary goal now is to win the Olympic 1500m run in Germany next year. It would be the first time since 1908 that an American won the event.

Liquori came to running as most track athletes do—as an after-thought in a quest for some physical, visible identity. An outlet for an intense competitive drive. As a youngster, he dabbled at the usual boyhood athletic pastimes but experienced his greatest success in Little League baseball. Largely because of his mother's coaching. "I was always a bit of a tomboy," said the dapperly attractive fortyish Sarah Brecken Liquori. "I taught Marty how to catch. He was slightly built for a catcher but he had a good arm. Nobody tried to steal when Marty was behind the plate."

When he entered high school, he sought glory with the basketball team. But the turnout was large enough so that a skinny 5'6" kid was easily overlooked. He turned to cross country to strengthen himself. Soon after, when he ran a half-mile in less than two minutes and 10 seconds, he began to think that maybe he might make it as a runner.

By his junior year, Liquori was being courted by scores of colleges offering scholarships in return for running four-minute miles with their names across his chest. The securing of such a scholarship was Marty's prime objective throughout his high school career. For a while he looked to the more runner-favored conditions of the West Coast. But dissuaded by the possibility that his family would not be able to see him compete often, he turned back to the East and settled on Penn.

But along came the 1961 Penn Relays when he ran a 4:04.4 mile and a 1:36.1 half-mile and was named the meet's outstanding high school athlete. "I think it was then that I first realized how good I could be. And the Ivy League had never produced a four-minute miler. And Mr. Elliott already had four and had better runners for me to train with."

So in a sudden shift that left Penn athletic officials aghast, Liquori repudiated his four-year training from an ultra-modern, $250,000 artificial track in West Philadelphia to an ancient, spike-chewed cinder runway at Villanova University on the Main Line.

It was in high school where Liquori met Carol Jones, now 23, an attractive, freckle-faced girl who looks like Emily in Our Town. They're going to be married next year. A guitar player then, Liquori's musical group was playing a gig at a party she attended. Soon afterwards, his coach told him he had to choose between the guitar and running. He put the instrument away.

Fred Dwyer, who himself missed breaking a four-minute mile by less than a second during his running days, guided Liquori all through high school. "I guess I first noticed he was developing into something in his sophomore year. Not so much in the meets as at practices. He was out there in all kinds of weather. He had that competitive pride and that extreme individualism that a champion must have."

Like most people close to Liquori, Dwyer bristles when asked about the inked image of Liquori as a quasi-hippie, beggart and egomaniac. He blames it mostly on "bad press." But the image was set vocally on May 18 when Liquori was booed while he was being introduced prior to his match with Ryan.

It has been pointed out that most of the boosers at that meet were black spectators who may still be festering over Liquori's humiliating win over Keino last year.

The Marty Liquori Sr. congratulates Marty after a victory. His fiancée is Carol Jones.

In any case, Liquori's reputation as some kind of wild, insolent showboat—"hood" the jocks call it—is hard to figure. He strongly reflects a traditional, high moralistic, non-sensuous kind of upbringing that one would expect of a Cedar Grove, N. J. boy. (The town, a suburb of Newark, has about 8500 people.)

He's been going with the same girl for six years, admits to subscribing to "that Billy Graham stuff" is down on drugs, espouses belief in the free enterprise system, and has enough Catholicism in him to cross himself publicly before each race.

Yet the rebellious brat image persists to the point where a sportswriter who has covered Liguori closely for four years and seems to like him, stated: "Marty's just not the kind of guy you feel sorry for when he loses."

The unfavorable impression is apparently traceable to his practice of publicly scolding opponents he doesn't think ran fair races. And his way of simply being himself off the track. "If he thinks he's going to beat somebody, he says so," offered a sportswriter.

Liguori's assessment of his athletic ability has always been high and he has stated so very plainly. This frank objectivity has been interpreted as a kind of hubris, by those who like their heroes to gaze at the floor, shuffle their feet and blurt an "aw shucks."

"I'll tell you one thing," said Dwyer. "A man needs a lot of character and integrity to run the race he did against Ryan (May 16). For a man to dig as deep as he did requires the full development of the intangibles in a man."

Adds his mother: "They're always trying to make him out like a tough guy. Marty's only been in one fight that I know of and that guy had been asking for it for weeks. If they say he's cocky, OK. Better that than a pansy." Case closed.

If a guy may be judged by the company he keeps, you need go no further than Liguori's closest college friend, teammate Ron Stanko. If you call Stanko a square, he'll thank you for the compliment.

"Marty and I are close because we share values," said Stanko. "Like me, Marty believes that no one gets anything in this world that he doesn't deserve. He believes if you want something you have to work to get it. Marty won't help anybody that can help himself."

The two have entered into a couple of minor business ventures together. They sold gold shirts and even stereo equipment to their fellow students—which was as much as exercise in old-fashioned enterprise as a way to gather spending money. Liguori has also been selling insurance to his college mates and accepting speaking engagements on the side. A finance major, he states frankly of his future: "I want to make a lot of money."

Stanko says the only difference he has with Liguori lies in their approaches to track. "Marty was always looking at how to make a future out of track by using it as a stepping stone. Whereas, I always see it in the present and took what personal enjoyment I could out of it at the time. With Marty it was more of a job. He's just more future-oriented."

Not so oddly then, when Liguori was asked what impression he would most like to leave with people, he answered: "I'd like them to see me as a dedicated runner. But something more, too. I'd like them to see me as somebody worth hiring.

As somebody who would be an asset to a company and society."

Even his girl is tuned into the practical advantages of Liguori's doings. "I think at this point he's running for both of us," said Carol. (They plan to be married after the Olympics.) "He's building his name so that later, when he goes into business or law, it will open doors."

(And he will use that name when he wants to. His father, Martin, Sr., tells the story of how he wrangled a reservation at a posh Philadelphia restaurant by using his son's name. When the family was VIPed to death by a corps of over-eager waiters, a suspicious Liguori asked his father how he procured the reservations. When told, Marty looked seriously at his father and said: "Don't ever use my name like that again." The elder Liguori hasn't.)

As for being number one girl to number one guy, Carol states it up simply: "It's a lot more exciting than going with Joe Shoo." Last summer the two toured Europe together as Marty competed in races throughout the continent. And if he had been Joe Shoo, as Liguori noted, "I would have been holding down some summer job here, instead. And having a good time was high on my list of priorities last summer."

He lost seven out of twenty races having a good time in Europe. But it didn't phase him in the least. "If I had been competing for the American team, things would have been different. But I was on my own and I just wanted to see what the competition was like."

Liguori's apparent ability to slot his running into a total perspective of what he is and where he is going in what keeps his head on straight about athletic competition, and it is also what will probably prevent him from going through the mental trauma that felled Ryan out of competition for almost two years.

He trains hard but he knows how to cool it, too. He shoots a fair game of pool and if you're a visitor in his room, he'll probably offer you a can of beer from his tiny refrigerator and quaff one along with you. He even keeps a bottle of bourbon in his steers cabinet which alternately may scuzz the rock sounds of Tenmg, by The Who, or the fragile strains of Mozart.

Hardly coming on like some kind of star, Liguori lives alone in a dormitory room not much larger than a Main Line bathroom. His bed, a thin mattress under which he has placed a large piece of plywood, looks like something out of a prison cell. ("In Europe, the beds were so soft I had to sleep on the floor most nights.")

The training necessary to run a mile in less than four minutes (and, hopefully, under 3:50) is seemingly never-ending. For Liguori it begins in the fall with the cross country season, continues through the winter indoor track season and right on through the spring and summer outdoor meets.

He runs 100 to 110 miles every week. He's up at dawn to get as much in as he can before breakfast and classes. The remainder he spends in at the end of the day. In between, he may get off some speed training by running a series of 12 quarter-mile laps in 35 to 37 seconds each, jogging one and sprinting one until a dozen fast ones are completed.

The mile run combines the most desirable properties of both speed and mental/physical fortitude. Although Liguori's speed is excellent for a middle distance runner, his is not the best. He himself admits that Ryan is quicker and there probably are others. But for sheer stamina over the middle distances there may not be an athlete in the world who can stay with the spare six-foot tall, 145-pound runner.

"He's strong as a bull," said coach Elliott. "and like former Irish miller) Ron Delaney, he has a lion's heart. He has the ability to maintain his speed over longer distances. He can do this better than any runner I've ever seen."

Liguori's description of how he runs in competition is deliberate and determined. "I have five or six things I must think about. I have to keep my face relaxed and my shoulders relaxed. I have to keep my arms low without pumping hard. I have to breathe from my diaphragm. And on the last lap for the first 200 yards I have to concentrate on picking up (the pace) but not using my arms, and lifting my knees. And if it's a particularly competitive race, you find over the last 100 yards your legs are gone. And you just move by pumping your arms until you hit the tape.

"And for every runner during the race, a moment of truth comes. It comes when you start to hurt physically. When that happens you have a choice to let up and lessen the pain or go all out." It's at this point where a champion is created or destroyed. Liguori admits there have been times when he has hesitated to answer the call, but says they have been few.

A formidable weapon in Liguori's competitive arsenal, one not readily apparent to the casual observer, is his mental toughness. It is an absolute refusal to be beaten. And it is closely aligned with the extreme self-confidence he exudes, which is often demoralizing to his opponents.

Marty is an expert in the diabolical craft of "psyching-out" his opponents. Psyching-out is a mental pose and pattern of behavior that transmits to an opponent by psychological vibration the message that he is beaten before the race has even started. Liguori admits to doing this purposely but often it happens simply through his presence.

"Sometimes I'll meet a guy in a hotel lobby and make a big fuss over him," said Liguori. "Then out on the track later he may jog past me and say hello and I'll ignore him. That's just enough to give you that psychological edge."

One sportswriter claims that Liguori unwittingly psyched-out his own teammate, Dave Patrick, at the 1968 Olympic trials. Thought to be Liguori's superior at the time, Patrick lost a spot on the team when Ryan and the 18-year old Liguori whipped him.

(Running with a hairline fracture in his foot, Liguori placed last in the 1968 Olympic Mile. His reaction was typical: "No great shock. I'm young and there will be another Olympics.")

Somewhere in the calculating storm of Liguori's mind there is a philosophical bent that is nurtured by and finds affirmation in literature of the science fiction genre. ("Far-out 411 kept me up until 2 a. m. when I ran on television.") He's deeply interested in the writings of futurist seers.

"A lot of what Orwell and Huxley wrote about, you can see right now," Liguori said. "Like, the seeking of happiness through pills and drugs. Half the guys I went to high school with are on dope now. And I can see it here at school, too. I believe the only real happiness you can have is that which you earn by working for it. Those on drugs and marijuana are unrealistically happy."

As serious as he may be about the subject, Liguori can still appreciate drug humor when it happens. He tells of himself and two friends being visited in his room by a priest. At the four spoke, the unmistakable odor of marijuana seeped into their midst as someone lit up in a nearby room.

"The three of us just looked at each other," Liguori laughed. "Then two of the guys excused themselves. When the priest was leaving, the whole hallway smelled like Right Guard—they sprayed the whole damn hall so the priest wouldn't find out."

So how big the head that wears the crown?

"I don't think of myself as number one," said Liguori. "What did I beat him by (Ryan, last month) a yard? What does it mean? Suppose the next time he beats me by a yard or two or three. What would it prove. I think right now we're sharing the number one spot.

"I'll tell you something. I don't want to be remembered as the guy who beat Ryan."

What would you like to be remembered for, Marty?

"I want to be remembered as the best mile of all time. And I'll be disappointed if I'm not." □
